takeremo
AI Calling. Human Conversations. Real Results

How TakeRemo works

A guide for customers: from your contact list to finished calls, results and reports.

What is inside

1	What TakeRemo does for you
2	The five kinds of calls Remo makes
3	Your workflow, step by step
4	What happens inside one call
5	Languages and voice
6	Your dashboard
7	What you receive after every call
8	Control, privacy and safety
9	What we need from you to start
10	Good to know, and common questions

1. What TakeRemo does for you

Remo is an AI voice agent that makes and answers business phone calls for you, so your team can focus on the conversations that matter.

You give Remo a list of people to call and a short brief about your business. Remo phones them, has a natural conversation in English, Hindi or Telugu, notes down what each person says, and hands you a clear result for every call. Remo can also answer calls that come in to your business number.

What this means for you

- Less time on the phone. Remo handles the first conversation: screening, qualifying, booking and answering common questions.
- Every call is recorded in writing. You get a transcript, a short summary and the key details, not just a missed-call list.
- You stay in control. You decide who is called, what Remo says, and when a campaign starts, pauses or stops.
- Consistent every time. Remo is polite, patient and follows your brief on every call.

> Remo always says it is an AI assistant when asked. It never pretends to be a person, and it only speaks about your business using the facts you provide.

2. The five kinds of calls Remo makes

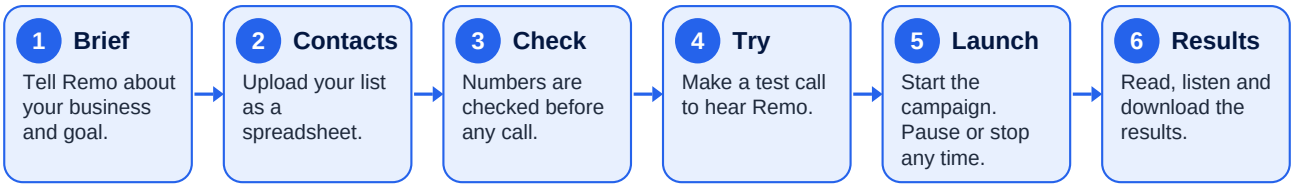

Choose the job that fits your business. Each one has its own conversation plan and its own results.

Call type	What Remo does	Typical result
Recruitment	Phones candidates, confirms they are the right person, asks your screening questions one at a time and records the answers.	Screened candidate with experience, availability and a shortlist outcome.
Sales	Opens a polite conversation, finds out whether the business has a need, explains your offer using your facts and agrees a next step.	Interested, meeting requested, email requested, callback requested or not interested.
Customer support	Answers common questions from your information, collects the details of an issue and tells the caller what happens next.	Issue logged with the details your team needs to follow up.
Appointment setting	Collects the purpose, preferred date, time and name, and does not ask for the same detail twice.	Appointment request with all required details filled in.
Receptionist	Answers your business line, understands why the person called and takes a clear message or enquiry.	Enquiry or message recorded for your team.

Calls can go out (Remo phones your list) and come in (Remo answers a number assigned to your business).

3. Your workflow, step by step

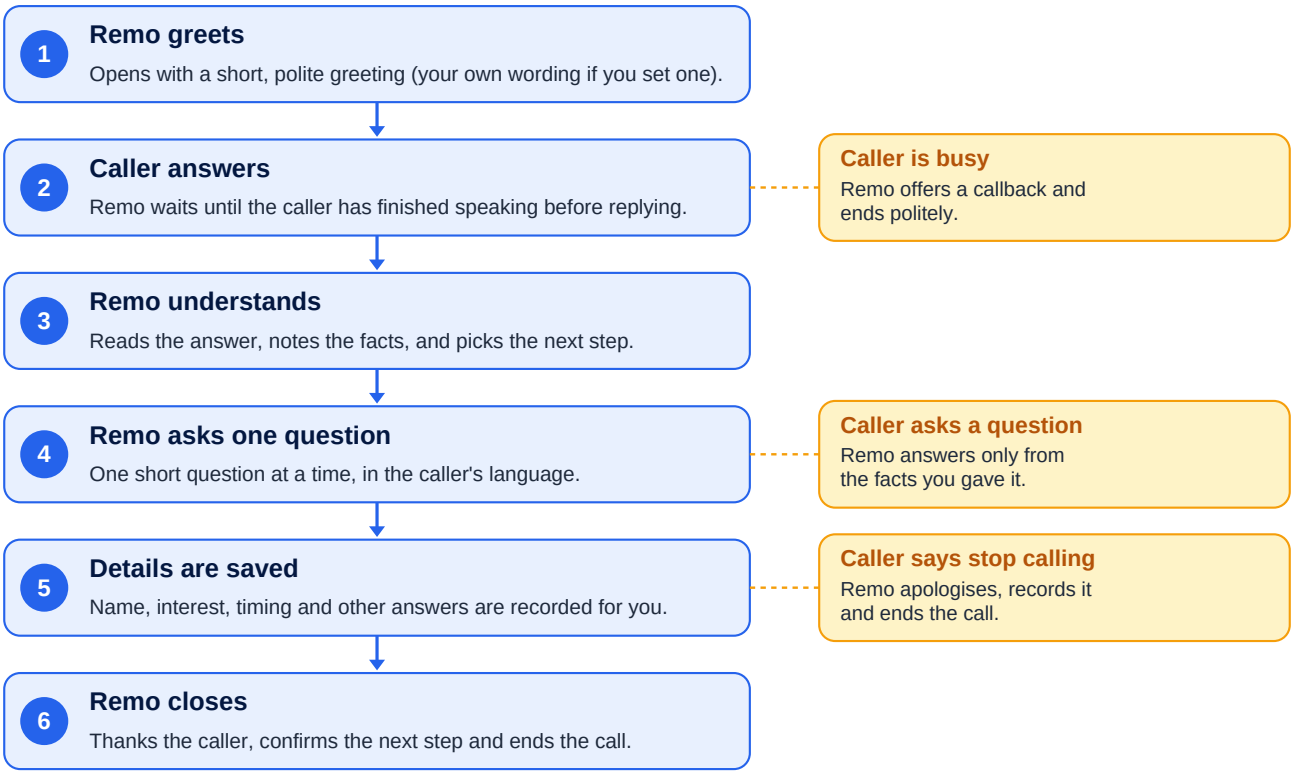

From the first setup to the finished report, in six simple steps.

Step	What happens	What you do
1. Brief	Remo learns what to say and ask. You can upload a PDF or Word document (a job description, product sheet or FAQ). Remo reads it and builds the conversation plan and the facts it may use.	Upload a document, or write a short set of instructions and a greeting for your agent.
2. Contacts	Your list goes into a campaign. Each campaign keeps its own contacts, document and results, so they never mix.	Upload an Excel sheet with a name and phone number per row.
3. Check	Every number is checked. Valid numbers are ready to call; invalid or duplicate rows are marked and skipped.	Review the counts: valid, invalid and ready.
4. Try	You can place a test call to your own phone and hear exactly how Remo speaks, before any customer is called.	Listen, then adjust the greeting, instructions or voice.
5. Launch	Remo works through the list, placing calls one after another. You can pause, resume or cancel the queue at any time.	Press Start. Watch the live panel.
6. Results	Each finished call appears with its transcript, summary, outcome and recording. Download the campaign as an Excel sheet.	Follow up with the people who matter.

4. What happens inside one call

Remo follows a clear order, and handles the common surprises politely.

How Remo keeps the conversation natural

- It waits for the caller. Remo listens until the caller finishes, and stops talking when the caller speaks over it.
- One question at a time. Remo does not repeat a question the caller has already answered.
- Short answers, no waffle. Replies stay brief so the call feels like a conversation, not a speech.
- Only your facts. If Remo does not know something, it says so and offers a follow-up from your team instead of guessing.

5. Languages and voice

	Details
Languages	English, Hindi and Telugu. If the caller switches language during the call, Remo follows and keeps the same meaning.
Greeting	Remo opens with a standard polite greeting. You can write your own greeting for each agent, including the caller's name.
Your brief	Each agent can have its own instructions: who it speaks for, what it offers, what to ask and how to close.
Voice	Choose from the available voices and listen to a preview before you launch.
Pronunciation	Names with titles are spoken naturally. For example, "Dr. Ravi" is spoken as "Doctor Ravi".

6. Your dashboard

One screen shows what is happening now and what has happened so far.

Area	What you see
Overview cards	Total, completed, failed, pending and active calls, plus counts by call type.
Calling queue	The call being made right now, how many are waiting, in progress, completed and failed. Pause, resume or cancel the queue.
Campaigns	All your saved campaigns, newest first, with search and filters by type and status. Start, pause, resume, duplicate or archive a campaign.
Conversations	Every call with its transcript, summary and outcome. Open a call to read what was said and play the recording.
Downloads	Download a campaign's contacts and results as an Excel sheet.

7. What you receive after every call

Everything is saved against the person called, so nothing is lost.

You receive	Details
Transcript	The conversation, word for word, between Remo and the person called.
Summary	A short plain-language summary of the call and what was agreed.
Outcome	A clear label, for example Interested, Meeting Requested, Callback Requested, Not Interested or Do Not Call.
Details collected	Facts the person shared, such as name, role, interest, timing and preferred next step.
Call facts	Date, time, how long the call lasted and whether it connected.
Recording	Listen to or download the call audio from the conversation page (kept for 30 days, see section 8).
Excel report	Download all of a campaign's results in one spreadsheet to share or import into your own tools.

8. Control, privacy and safety

Topic	How it works
Your data stays yours	Each account sees only its own campaigns, contacts and calls. One customer can never see another customer's data.
Access	You sign in to your own dashboard. There are no public or shareable links to calls or recordings.
Recordings	Call recordings can be played and downloaded by you. Each recording is deleted automatically 30 days after the call. The transcript, summary and result stay. Download a recording within 30 days if you need to keep it.
Do not call	If a person asks not to be called again, Remo apologises, records the request and ends the call.
Honesty	Remo tells people it is an AI assistant when asked, and never invents prices, guarantees or facts you did not give it.
Your control	You decide who is called, what Remo says, and when the queue runs. You can pause or cancel at any moment.

9. What we need from you to start

A short checklist. Most customers are ready for a first test call quickly.

Item	Why we need it
Your goal	Which job should Remo do: recruitment, sales, support, appointments or reception?
Your business facts	A PDF or Word document with what you offer, key facts, common questions and answers. Remo uses only this to speak about you.
Your contact list	An Excel sheet with a name and a phone number for each person (include the country code, such as +91).
Greeting and brief	How Remo should open the call, what to ask, and how to close. We can help you write these.
Language	The main language for your calls: English, Hindi or Telugu.
Next step	What should happen after a good call: a meeting, a callback, an email, or a booked appointment.

Tip: start with a small list of 10 to 20 contacts. Listen to the calls and read the transcripts, adjust the brief, and then launch the full list.

10. Good to know, and common questions

Good to know

- Calls are placed one after another. Remo works through your list in order, so a large list takes time. Plan big campaigns across a day or more.
- Follow-ups are done by your team. Remo records the preferred next step (for example WhatsApp, email or a callback). Sending the message or making the callback is done by your team.
- Hand-over to a person. Remo records when a caller wants a person or a callback. Your team follows up from the result.
- Recordings last 30 days. After that only the written record remains.

Can I hear Remo before it calls my customers?
Yes. Place a test call to your own phone and adjust the greeting, instructions or voice.

Can I change what Remo says after I start?
Yes. Pause the campaign, update the greeting or instructions, and resume. New calls use the new wording.

What if a number is wrong or does not answer?
Invalid numbers are skipped before calling. Calls that fail or go unanswered are shown clearly in the results.

Will Remo say anything that is not in my information?
Remo is told to use only the facts you provide. If it does not know, it offers a follow-up from your team.

Can I stop a campaign?
Yes. Pause, resume or cancel the queue whenever you like from the dashboard.

> Ready to begin? Visit takeremo.com or write to Reach@takeremo.com and we will set up your first test call with you.